Letters Sent

Sandburg, Carl, praising The People, Yes, after hearing the recording of it, sent to Randall by Jack Kapp, Decca Record's president), Sept. 29, Nov. 4, 1941.

Fischer, LeRoy H., page of comments on the manuscript published in "Lincoln's Gadfly: Adam Gurowski," Mississippi Valley Historical Review, 34:3 (Dec. 1949), 415-34.

Letters Received

Anderson, Charles D. (Macmillan Co.), thanking Randall for his memorandum on Clement Eaton, A History of the Old South (1949), Dec. 9, 1949.

Basler, Roy P. (Abraham Lincoln Association), June 23, 1950, enclosing his letter to Freeman Champney (manager, Antioch Press, Yellow Springs, Ohio), June 25, 1950, regarding Basler's categorical view that a certain "Lincoln" letter could not be genuine. The letter in question had been submitted to Randall as an authentic Lincoln document.

Clark, Arthur H., Co., advertising Grenville M. Dodge, Personal Collections of Lincoln, Grant, and Sherman (1915), and Randall's bill for a copy, Apr. 30, 1938.

Creamer, John Henry (Cleveland, Ohio), regarding his manuscript, Lincoln Under Enemy Fire: A Complete Account of his Experiences during Early's Attack on Washington (1948), Jan. 24, 1946, and Randall's reply, praising the work and suggesting specific changes (3 pages), Feb. 7, 1946.

Eisenschiml, Otto (Chicago), Aug. 20, 1942: on negative reviews of Eisenschiml's In the Shadow of Lincoln's Death (1940); on his discussion of this in his autobiography, Without Fame: The Romance of a Profession (1942); and on his support of LeRoy Henry Fischer's study of "Adam Gurowski and the Civil War: A Radical's Record" (Ph.D. diss., University of Illinois, 1943; published as Lincoln's Gadfly, Adam Gurowski (1964)).

Freidel, Frank, May 5, 1946, enclosing reprint of "General Orders 100 and Military Government.

Hambrecht, George P. (Wisconsin State Board of Education), on an exchange of off-prints of their articles, Dec. 11, 1926.

Klement, Frank (Marquette University), Jan. 31, 1952, enclosing reprint of "Economic Aspects of Middle Western Copperheadism"; Randall's reply, Feb. 5, 1952.

Long, J. C. (Bethlehem, Pa.), on using Randall's interpretations of Lincoln in The Liberal Presidents: A Study of the Liberal Tradition in the American Presidency (1948), Oct. 11, 1948.

Nichols, Roy F. (University of Pennsylvania), expressing his appreciation of Randall's favorable review of his book, [probably Franklin Pierce: Young Hickory of the Granite Hills (1931)], June 14, 1932.

Pratt, Harry E. (Blackburn College), wanting to talk with Randall, June 26, 1931.

Roderick Paul Thaler on his article in the Slavonic Review and on his graduate courses at Harvard, Oct. 12, 1952. See also other Thaler offprints.

Rolle, Andrew F., on his military service in World War II and the Korean War, and on finishing his Ph.D. at UCLA. See also offprints of his articles, "California Filibustering and the Hiwaiian Kingdom, Pacific Historical Review, 19:3 (Aug. 1950), and "Futile Filibustering in Baja California, 1888-1890," ibid., 20:2 (May 1951).

Ronalds, Francis S. (Morristown National Historic Park), Mar. 29, 1943.

Stephenson, Wendell H. (manager editor, Mississippi Valley Historical Review), urging Randall to review Fischer's manuscript on Gurowski, Oct. 1, 1948.

Wasson, R. Gordon (a vice president of J. P. Morgan & Co.), asking if he might quote from Randall's letter to him on the jacket of a new edition of Wasson's work, The Hall Carbine Affair (1941, 1947); Randall's replied, not wishing to be quoted as "I do not consider myself an authority on this particular subject; Wasson's acknowledgment. Letters of Jan. 20, 22, 26, 1948. Also photocopies of two reviews of Wasson's book.

Randall and Lincoln on the cover of the Saturday Review of Literature, Nov. 14, 1945, drawn by Frances O'Brien (Garfield). Framed; stored in open flat storage cabinet.

Pencil sketch by Randall (and digital copy): "Wayne C. Temple / from Life / J. R. Randall / Nov. 16, 1951." Dr. Temple donated this sketch to the Library. Biographers of Randall often point out his talent in making portraits in pencil, water color, and oil. In flat storage.

7. Offprints Collected by the Randalls

Students and friends of James G. Randall often gave him copies of their writings. Most of these publications are periodical articles on topics that he also studied and probably suggested to them, and many are inscribed to him. A few are simply abstracts of dissertations that he directed.

This collection contains nearly one hundred separate articles. They are listed in alphabetical order by author, and include the title of each piece and year of its publication. Full bibliographical information may be added at a later point, although additional data is included in a Lincoln Room card catalog of the 1960s, which can be found in Row 1, Drawer 10 of that catalog.

Also in the collection are a few offprints inscribed to Ruth Painter Randall or to both Randalls.

9. Books Annotated by the Randalls

Sandburg, Carl, and Paul M. Angle, Mary Lincoln, Wife and Widow (1932). Many documents in Part 2 of this book are accompanied by marginal notes.

Hertz, Emanuel, The Hidden Lincoln: From the Letters and Papers of William H. Herndon (1938). Both James G. Randall and Ruth Painter Randall filled this copy of Hertz's volume with marginal queries and detailed corrections of his printing the Herndon's material. They checked several letters against photostats of the originals.

Kincaid, Robert L., Joshua Fry Speed, Lincoln's Most Intimate Friend (1943). The texts of "Lincoln's Letters to Speed," (Part II, pages 37-80) are meticulously annotated to show how they differ from the photostats of the originals.

Washington, John E., They Knew Lincoln (1942). Inscribed to Dr. James G. Randall, this copy of the book includes numerous notes, particularly in the pages about Elizabeth Keckly.

Thomas, Benjamin P., Abraham Lincoln: A Biography (1952). This copy contains numerous check marks and marginal notes by the Randalls, twelve of which are listed by page as "error[s]" on the flyleaf.

10. Papers Relating to the Randall Professorship

Last Will and Testament of Ruth E. Randall, signed on June 21, 1946.

Papers relating to the creation and administration of the Will, including extract of Article Eight of the will regarding the Randall professorship, approval of the Board of Trustees, Oct. 18, 1972; draft of the Chancellors letter on the matter, July 27, 1973; memorandum for a meeting of the University of Illinois Foundation and letter of the Board's secretary, Sept. 13, 1973; and documents concerning the relevant Foundation account, Sept. 25, 1975, and July 21, 1982.

Robert W. Johannsen (first appointee to the "J. G. Randall Distinguished Professor of History") to James R. Barrett (chair, Department of History), Feb. 24, 2000, objecting to the search committee's choice of candidates to be Johannsen's successor inasmuch as Ruth Randall's will specified the appointment of "a distinguished scholar...in that field of American history which my husband gave distinguished service, specifically including Lincoln, Civil War, Southern and Constitutional history."

[Related correspondence, to and from campus administrators, foundation officials, James R. Barrett, Frederick E. Hoxie, Michael Burlingame, John T. Hubbell, and others is filed in the papers of John Hoffmann, librarian of the Library's Illinois History and Lincoln Collections at the time.]
